Sponsored by

Sepulveda Building Materials Charity Golf Tournament

Many different things
she's learned to ignore
She doesn't even flinch,
not anymore

People come and go, they continuously walk by She goes on her merry way and turns a blind eye

We keep her bathed, she's squeaky clean For she's always out and being seen

A representative of Guide Dogs, for all to see And her sponsor as well, she's proud to be

Halloween was fun, if she could only fly
The depths of gravity she would defy

Then Christmas came;
she's seen all the sites
She survived it all even the lights

She enjoys going out to see a movie
She doesn't mind the dark; she thinks it's groovy

She's quiet as a mouse, not even a growl Although a time or two, she's snuck out a howl

Sessions she attends to learn and train She's doing quite well, we can't complain

Distractions are key; it fine tunes many a skill At times she's silly and can be a pill

A photograph of two dogs, a golden retriever and a yellow lab, sitting on a carpeted floor and eating dog bones. The golden retriever is in the foreground, looking down at its bone. The yellow lab is behind it, also eating a bone. A speech bubble originates from the golden retriever's head.

“Dinner Time?
Uhh . . . she’s not hungry.
She said I could have hers.”
